"Click!" said the young girl. She was sitting at her desk in her classroom, looking at a computer screen. The screen showed a map of the United States. She was clicking on the map with her mouse. The map was showing her the location of the first settlement in America. She was learning about the early settlers and how they lived. She was also learning about the geography of the United States. She was clicking on the map to see the different states and how they were connected. She was learning about the history of the United States and how it grew from a small settlement to a great nation. She was clicking on the map to see the different parts of the country and how they were different. She was learning about the people who lived there and how they lived. She was clicking on the map to see the different things that were growing there and how they were used. She was learning about the culture of the United States and how it was different from other countries. She was clicking on the map to see the different cities and how they were built.
