Towards Network Globalization - Proceedings Of The 1991 Singapore International Conference Of Networks (Sicon '91) Gee Swee Poo,1991-08-29 With globalization in every area of human activity being a key trend of the 1990s better and faster networks will have an increasingly important role and impact in making the global village a reality The papers collected in this volume highlight the global nature of the activities and the tremendous pace of R D in the field of communications and networking

Essays on Globalization and Innovation Nevine El-Mallakh,2020 This thesis contributes to the literature in International Economics and Innovation Economics In the first chapter by documenting new complementarity effects of Foreign Direct Investments FDI openness and the reduction of tariff barriers on imports of intermediate goods on domestic firm productivity resulting in a transfer of input related knowledge that allows domestic firms to reduce their transaction cost and or to import better quality inputs Using firm level Indian data spanning the liberalization episode in the early 1990s findings of a Difference in Differences identification strategy relying on the exogenous reforms show the existence of this described spillover effects Furthermore in chapter 2 technology improvement effects in terms of technological investments are identified By extending a heterogenous firm model to explain such effects two types of spillovers caused by the exposure of domestic firms to multinational firms in terms of investments in technology are identified vertical and horizontal Finally in the last chapter a unique inventor patent dataset for 33 OECD countries is use to estimate the effect of technological advancements in particular the fall in broadband Internet price on the geographic distribution of innovative activities that materialize in patents at city technology level The fall in quality adjusted price of ICT increases the dissemination of knowledge and data It also strengthen the intensity of remote interactions Results show an increase in the concentration of patenting activities in top cities suggesting a path dependence and Marshallian type spillovers

Equity and Influence in the Funding of Schools Matthew P. Sinclair,2025-04-17 This book traces the policymaking processes of the Review of Funding for Schooling 2011 which fundamentally changed school funding policy in Australia School funding is a key element of any equitable school system This is because the distribution of government funding for schooling leads to significant differences in the educational opportunities available for individual students schools and communities The book shows that although education policy is often thought about as an abstract process it is a series of small critical moments that create the policy and progress implementation towards or away from equity in school funding Sinclair offers a new theory for understanding and then impacting in real time the policymaking process towards equity in school funding the critical moments theory In doing so he identifies where education leaders teachers policymakers scholars and community members all have the agency to influence policy from conceptualisation to implementation

The concept of globalisation is essentially about the increasing economic political cultural and technological intergradation with increasing speed depth and breadth Globalisation has become a buzz word in many academic debates especially amongst those who use the concept to describe the spread of global capital market the declining role of the state and globalisation of civil society Harvey 2005 Harmon 2009 Chomsky 1999 Saad Filho and Johnston 2004 In short Harvey defines neoliberalism as a theory of political economic practices that proposes that human well being can best be advanced by liberating individual entrepreneurial freedoms and skills within an institutional framework characterized by strong private property rights free markets and free trade The role of the state is to create and preserve an institutional framework appropriate to such practices The state has to guarantee for example the quality and integrity of money It must also set up those military defence police and legal structures and functions required to secure private property rights and to guarantee by force if need be the proper functioning of markets Furthermore if markets do not exist in areas such as land water education health care social security or environmental pollution then they must be created by state action if necessary Harvey 2005 2 This has become an all encompassing term for differing economic and political projects What essentially new liberalism has in common is that the state should be minimal as the competition of the market will bring economic efficiency and choice The crisis of capitalism in the late 1970s and 1980s has opened the gap for neoliberal ideas to have resonance as a solution to global capitalism Despite their political historical geographical and economic differences nearly every country in the world especially in the global south has implemented neoliberal policies in some form The policies have become an increasingly real alternative to overcome the predicament of the world economy With the demise of Soviet ideology the advocates of the free market liberalism in the world particularly in the USA saw this as an opportunity to reassert their power globally Hence the globalisation of the world economy is claimed to serve the great majority of the world s people and it will liberate the poor countries because they will have free domestic and international trade and more open financial markets Wade 2004 38 At the core of globalisation lies the belief that a country must promote the private sector as the primary engine of its economic growth by shrinking the size of its state bureaucracy increasing exports privatising state owned industries and utilities and deregulating capital markets Freidman 1999 The process that led to claim that the state that artefact of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries has begun to crumble Ohmea 1995 7 With the international system the borders are no longer necessary and the international commerce would become free from the cumbersome constraints of state interference However the reality after nearly three decades of globalisation have not been drastically different from much of the world the international system has yet to witness universalization of democracy or wealth In fact one of the consequences of globalisation appears to have been the poor growth and polarisation of wealth Morady they have been responsible to regulate and implement policies to suit the market Mustafa Do an also looks at the local development issue yet assessing the role of ecomuseums in Turkey Whilst the principles of sustainable local development are now widely implemented across the world at the same time are protecting cultural and natural assets The article will provide an overview on ecomuseums that they are focused on a specific place or territory and on the relationship between the population and their environment culture and local history He will argue that ecomuseums have been utilized as a major means of promoting sustainable development in many rural areas of the world by conserving natural historical and sociocultural resources of a locality whilst recognising a place's potential to provide low level tourism and economic social opportunities The empirical work of the paper is based on ecomuseum and social economic development in Bo atepe village in the province of Kars in Turkey One of the consequences of globalisation is migration and gender as it is becoming a major socioeconomic study The feminisation of migration as defining the number of women at international labour migration has been increasing in recent years Nilay Etiler and Kuvvet Lordolu will assess the health problems of recent female migrants They will argue that women migrants are mostly employed in jobs that are appropriate to their gender roles such as housework or childcare Whilst the health of migrants as a whole deteriorate because of poor living and working conditions the female workers suffer more especially in the area of mental health Ayhan Orhan focuses on the property rights of natural Resources in a globalised world He examines the rapid change of natural resource distribution in since the 1990s which has added a new dimension to the concept of property rights Hence he argues that natural resources and property rights could not be treated independently from Multi National Companies or the states As a last contributor of this volume of globalization Farhang Morady argues that Iran's strategy to balance between the US on the one hand and China Russia and India on the other was a failure According to his determinations the end of the Cold War and the emergence of new independent republics in Central Asia offered Iran the opportunity to become a vital actor in the geopolitics of the region Iran was seen as a possible corridor between Central Asia the Persian Gulf and the Indian Ocean Region IOR Struggling against US policy of strategic isolation Iran made concerted efforts to break out of it by cultivating closer ties with non Western powers

ers It used diplomacy energy and trade for the purpose of balancing its foreign relations His paper will assess the strategic ambitions of Iran as a regional power and the degree of its success in combating Western imposed sanctions and the US military threat over the disputed nuclear programme This balancing against the West was the dominant approach during the Conservative presidency of Mahmoud Ahmadinejad In the paper he figures out that it reflects a changed approach to serving Iran's interest by working with and not against the West Due to nuclear détente growing strategic convergence with the US in Iraq and Afghanistan and the American shift in emphasis to the Pacific Iran has an invaluable opportunity to re-emerge as a crucial member in the Indian Ocean Region We hope this addition of globalisation will provide some ideas to inspire academics and students not only to what the world is facing but some solutions as well

Reshaping Globalization Violetta Zentai, Andrea Krizsán, 2003 If the importance of globalization were judged by the volume of discussion it has generated it would surely be a concept of fundamental importance in the contemporary world And yet as a concept globalization is often indigestible meaning different things to different people and remaining obscure in its connotations A virtue of this volume of essays is that the phenomena of globalization are made more approachable by being divided into five discrete themes each of which forms part of the overall concept and each of which has important implications for policy decisions at the international regional and national levels By differentiating the concept in this way into the production of global knowledge the provision of global public goods the global trade system global foreign aid and global governance the analysis is sharpened in an illuminating and stimulating manner At the same time the editors Drs Violetta Zentai and Andrea Krizsan provide a masterly introductory essay that shows how the various parts make up the whole The fact that the book is a product of an international conference held at the Central European University shortly after September 11 in 2001 adds a layer to its significance The Center for Policy Studies at the Central European University and its collaborators deserve praise for such a thorough and timely analysis of these various strands of globalization Book jacket Globalization, Postcommunism, and the Modern Project [microform] : the Political Economy of Nihilism, Its Ciphers, and the Platonic Cave Vladimir Suchan, 1999

Globalization Discourse and the Potential for Change B. Mansfield, 2011 Essays on Globalization and Structural Change Guillermo Gallacher, 2019 In this dissertation I explore the relationship between structural change and globalization In particular I focus on the impact of international trade on sectoral labor markets In Chapter 1 by using a growth accounting framework I provide quantitative estimates of the impact of international trade on sectoral employment shares in the presence of structural change I find that in the USA between 1995 and 2014 international trade accounts for 16 percent of the decline in the goods sector employment share Across countries the impact of trade on the goods sector employment share is heterogeneous in sign and magnitudes and is correlated with comparative advantage in the goods sector I then introduce a Ricardian model of trade with structural change to shed light on the comparative advantage mechanism In the data and in the model international trade mitigates structural change forces in countries with a comparative advantage in the goods sector while it magnifies structural change forces in countries with a comparative advantage in the service sector The framework and results I present suggest that trade policy has a limited role in bringing the manufacturing jobs back In Chapter 2 I first document that changes in sectoral relative wages have been heterogeneous across countries and then show that these changes in sectoral relative wages matter for understanding employment reallocation I then ask why do sectoral relative wages evolve over time I argue that a likely explanation is the existence of idiosyncratic sectoral labor demand shocks in the context of employment reallocation frictions I argue that aggregate trade integration can generate such shifts The intuition is simple trade liberalization tends to increase labor demand in sectors in which the country has a comparative advantage and to decrease labor demand in sectors in the rest of sectors If labor cannot fully reallocate after such shocks wages tend to adjust relative wages tend to increase in sectors in which the country has a comparative advantage and tend to shrink in the rest of the economy Trade integration thus impacts sectoral relative wages and that this impact varies across countries I introduce a model of international trade with labor market frictions and show that countries with a comparative advantage in the goods service sectors tend to experience increasing relative wages in the goods service sector Using the Revealed Comparative Advantage Index I confirm this relationship in the data Employment reallocation frictions thus shed light on the empirical relevance of the Ricardian model of international trade

Globalization, the State and Foreign Policy- the Case of the Cartoon Crisis T. von Kappelgaard,2011 Globalization and the Myths of Free Trade Anwar Shaikh,2007-01-24 The world has become a human laboratory for the momentous social experiment called neoliberalism Its proclaimed purpose is to reduce global poverty its protocols are derived from the orthodox theory of competitive free markets and its policies are enforced by the full weight of the rich countries and global institutions such as the World Trade Organization WTO the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund IMF This book is a critical examination of this ongoing enterprise of its history theory practice and most of all of its outcomes An international team of contributors has been assembled including Lance Taylor Ha Joon Chang and Ajit Singh

Globalization Between the Hayekian and Polanyian Perspectives Andrea Riccardo Migone,2006 The history of economic systems is the history of the creation and redistribution of wealth for the use of human communities and of the epistemological paradigms that have underpinned this struggle In my thesis I present one facet of this enduring clash through the analysis of two such paradigms and explore their relation to the current phenomenon of globalization I believe that the nature of the current explanations of globalization which are generally one dimensional is unsatisfactory and that we need to respond to the challenges to the legitimacy distribution of benefits and costs that are increasingly brought against globalization I use of three tools in my analysis 1 A multifaceted approach to globalization 2 A theoretical premise that allows for complex links between market activity the social sphere and the individual In this sense I use at the highest level of abstraction the dialectic between Polanyian and Hayekian perspectives to highlight the concerns regarding the interplay between states markets and individuals 3 An Austrian Weberian inspired theory of institutions and organizations that as a mid range theory of action organically links the two and leaves individuals room for meaningful action within the two I argue that the challenges that the globalization is encountering can only be tackled by incorporating a strong participatory process inspired by a deontological vision of human beings Only by allowing individuals meaningful and free choice can the current model of globalization develop into a legitimate sustainable socio economic regime The Routledge International Handbook of Globalization Studies Bryan S Turner,2009-12-16 The Routledge International Handbook of Globalization Studies offers students clear and informed chapters on the history of globalization and key theories that have considered the causes and consequences of the globalization process There are substantive sections looking at demographic economic technological social and cultural changes in globalization The handbook examines many negative aspects new wars slavery illegal migration pollution and inequality but concludes with an examination of responses to these problems through human rights organizations international labour law and the growth of cosmopolitanism There is a strong emphasis on interdisciplinary approaches with essays covering sociology demography economics politics anthropology and history The Handbook written in a clear and direct style will appeal to a wide audience The extensive references and sources will direct students to areas of further study
