Capacity Development In Practice:

Capacity Development in Practice Alan Fowler, Jan Ubels, 2010-09-23 The international development community invests billions of dollars to improve organisational capacity But real life practice is poorly understood and undervalued as a distinct professional domain Written by practitioners this innovative publication is designed to make capacity development more professional and increasingly effective in achieving development goals Practical illustrations draw on experiences from the civic government and private sectors A central theme is to understand capacity as more than something internal to organisations This book shows how capacity also stems from connections between different types of actor and the levels in society at which they operate The content is crafted for a broad audience of practitioners in capacity development consultants managers front line workers trainers facilitators leaders advisors programme staff activists and funding agencies Published with SNV

Creative Capacity Development Jenny Pearson, 2011 The development community seems constantly and restlessly in search of a singular approach that will solve poverty unveiling new buzzwords every few years only to toss them aside Author Jenny Pearson argues that the fundamental flaw with this system is that each new approach fails to break out of the underlying technocratic and specialized paradigm in development work As Director of Cambodia's leading capacity building NGO VBNK Pearson explains how creative risks and an innovative spirit can revive development work especially in post conflict settings Creative Capacity Development provides an unflinching appraisal of the author's own assumptions and setbacks as she established VBNK and explains how a dynamic and open learning process allowed the organization to move beyond them Pearson's account drawn with insights from cultural studies mental health practice and the arts will guide other practitioners in broadening their own understanding of capacity building The book reveals that development work far from requiring a singular solution is and should be a never ending process

Capacity development in environment OECD., 1997

Capacity-building Deborah Eade, 1997 This book considers specific and practical ways in which NGO's can contribute to enabling people to build on the capacities they already possess It reviews the types of social organisation with which NGO's might consider working and the provision of training in a variety of relevant skills and activities

The United Nations as a Knowledge System Nanette Svenson, 2015-10-16 This book seeks to explore how the UN has generated warehoused disseminated structured packaged expanded transferred and leveraged its vast resources of accumulated information and experience throughout the decades and particularly since the start of the 21st century with the introduction of more connective information and communications technology It examines the overarching objectives that have guided such activity and divides UN knowledge management into three distinct but often overlapping and intertwining categories knowledge for social and organizational learning knowledge for norm setting and knowledge for creation of products and services Svenson brings together these multiple aspects of UN knowledge management to present a holistic view of how the organization utilizes its global intelligence to educate advocate and serve member countries development Instead of looking at the UN as an international bureaucracy or as a peacekeeping policymaking humanitarian or development entity this work studies the UN as a generator and purveyor of information learning and experience in all of these areas This book will be key reading for all students and scholars of international organizations

Human Capacity Development: in the Context of Integrated Programming Deutsche Gesellschaft für Internationale Zusammenarbeit (GIZ), 2012

Dispossession and the Environment Paige West, 2016-10-11 When journalists developers surf tourists and conservation NGOs cast Papua New Guineans as living in a prior nature and prior culture they devalue their knowledge and practice facilitating their dispossession Paige West's searing study reveals how a range of actors produce and reinforce inequalities in today's globalized world She shows how racist rhetorics of representation underlie all uneven patterns of development and seeks a more robust understanding of the ideological work that capital requires for constant regeneration

Building Peace from Within Maphosa, Sylvester B., DeLuca, Laura, Keasley, Alphonse, 2014-02-07 This book seeks to examine how successful models of building peace from within in the African context function. It draws emerging lessons to provide critical recommendations on policy practice and academia our primary audience. While there are numerous examples of failures of conflict resolution in Africa shown by intractable conflict axes, less attention is paid to successes. While acknowledging the challenges that exist, this edited volume provides positive examples of building peace from within in fragile contexts through many forms of initiatives and actions at different levels: community based through individual and or collective local peace initiatives; government through ministries and or departments; and regional through external and or multilateral infrastructure for peace. As a guiding principle, the notion of building peace from within draws from the idea of community regeneration which describes voluntary and peaceful activities of grassroots actors that reflect their broader interests of building peaceful communities and existence.

Critical Capacity Development Farhad Analoui, Joseph Kwadwo Danquah, 2018-07-13. This book contributes to our understanding of a neglected and poorly understood concept within the development field: capacity development in the context of human and organisational sustainable development. Relating capacity development to other perspectives in development thinking and practice and giving an account of the concept's genesis, the book introduces readers to recent empirical research initiatives that help to elucidate the concepts of capacity development and capacity management. While capacity development initiatives and programmes have been used by most international and national agencies over the course of the last five decades, the term means different things to different people and especially to different major players in the international community. This weakens its effectiveness. This book therefore strives first of all to set ground rules that can be utilised by international aid providers such as UNDP, OECD, World Bank and CIDA and practitioners alike.

Education in Cambodia Vincent McNamara, Martin Hayden, 2022-05-14. This book is the most comprehensive account yet published about the education system in Cambodia. It covers all system levels and draws upon the knowledge and insights of a wide range of leading Cambodian and foreign scholars. The book focuses on how the system has developed and is making progress. Significant achievements over the past two decades are evident but many problems remain including the poor quality of teaching, research and institutional management. Under funding is an ongoing obstacle but so too is a bureaucratic culture of resistance to change, a history of weak governance and an anti-reform sentiment deriving from a teacher-centred and exam-driven curriculum. Achieving international standards must now be the system's highest priority. To this end, the system must rid itself of conservatism, complacency and manipulation by parochial vested interests.
