W. Ratter,2019-06-07 Human perceptions decision making and pro environmental behaviour are closely connected This Research Topic focuses on bringing together perceptions and behaviour for sustainable coastal and island marine resource use systems Management and governance of large and small scale coastal marine resource use systems function in highly complex social and ecological environments which are culturally embedded economically interest led and politically biased Management processes therefore have to integrate multiple perspectives as well as perception driven standpoints on the individual as well as the decision makers levels Consequently the analysis of perceptions has developed not only as part of philosophy and psychology but also of environmental science anthropology and human geography It encompasses intuitions values attitudes thoughts mind sets place attachments and sense of place All of these influence human behavior and action and are collected or are available within the respective marine resource use system which may support the livelihood of a large part of the local population Management and governance are not only about mediating between resource use conflicts or establishing marine protected areas they deal with people and their ideas and perceptions Understanding the related decision making processes on multiple scales and levels hence means much more than economically assessing the available marine resources or existing threats to the associated system Over the past decade there has been a growing inter and transdisciplinary international community becoming interested in research which integrates perceptions of coastal and inland residents local and regional stakeholder groups as well as resource and environmental managers and decision makers By acknowledging the importance of the individual perspective and interest led personal views it became obvious how valuable and important these sources of information are for coastal research An increase of research effort spent on the link between perceptions and behaviour in marine resource use systems is thus both timely and needed By offering a diversity of inspiring and comprehensive contributions on the link between perceptions and behaviour this Research Topic aspires to critically enlighten the discourse and applicability of such research for finding sustainable locally identified anchored and integrated marine resource use pathways

Theatre as Alter/"Native" in Derek Walcott Nirjhar Sarkar,2023 Theatre as Alter Native in Derek Walcott attempts a close and detailed politico aesthetic analysis of his major plays At the core of this book lies the attempt to answer the question of how postcolonial artists and intellectuals have dared to imagine radically different ways of living in the face of oppositional binary choices And as the title suggests Walcott s plays carve out critical spaces for new narratives of becoming and alternative priorities entangled in contesting identities inscribed by race language and ethnicity Theatre as Walcott knew would be instrumental in demystifying Caribbean Absence and Void and generating an alternative version of dominant reality By a deliberate unseating of the Western texts filled with banal stereotypes and their representational biases and by triggering re action to the scripts of the colonizers in profoundly paradoxical ways Walcott s plays affirm the Caribbean identity This study seeks to demonstrate how his plays open an alter native universe in terms of aesthetics dramaturgy and the performative and reclaims New World identity in terms of negotiation rather than negation undermining the claim of solid authentic culture Placing the arts at the forefront of nation building Walcott situated his plays at a crucial juncture between the passing of the Empire and the newly born Federation in his archipelago
