In Flanders Fields

About the poppy

The Flanders poppy is also called the "corn poppy" because of how and where it was common in the trenches during the war. The poppy has northern-hemisphere's spring, and was in flower when the poem was written.

About the poem

In Flanders Fields was written on a page that was torn from a medical dispatch book in 1918 in the last weeks of the war. The author wanted to express his war experiences during World War I as a medical officer in Canadian army units.

In Flanders Fields

In Flanders fields the poppies blow

Between the crosses, row on row,

That mark our place and in the sky

The larks, still bravely singing, fly

Sweetest heart until they hear the guns

We see the dead, their days ago

We feel, we feel, we cannot give

Love, and we love, and now we lie

In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe

To you from falling heads we throw

The torch, be yours to hold it high

If ye least fail with us who die

We shall not sleep,

Though poppies grow

In Flanders fields.
