

Echinoderms Study Guide

Echinoderms are a fascinating group of marine animals with unique characteristics and adaptations. This study guide will help you understand their key features, classification, and ecological importance.

I. Key Characteristics:

- Spiny Skin: Most echinoderms have a spiny or bumpy skin due to an endoskeleton composed of calcium carbonate plates.
- Radial Symmetry: Adults exhibit radial symmetry, meaning their body parts are arranged around a central axis, often with five sections. Larvae have bilateral symmetry.
- Water Vascular System: A unique network of water-filled canals and tube feet used for locomotion, feeding, and gas exchange.
- Tube Feet: Small, muscular extensions of the water vascular system that end in suction cups, used for movement, attachment, and capturing prey.
- Endoskeleton: An internal skeleton made of calcium carbonate plates that provides support and protection.
- Marine Habitat: All echinoderms are exclusively marine animals, found in various ocean habitats.

II. Classification:

Echinoderms are classified into five main classes:

- Asteroidea (Sea Stars): Typically have five arms radiating from a central disk, predatory, use tube feet for movement and feeding.
- Ophiuroidea (Brittle Stars): Have long, slender, flexible arms sharply distinct from the central disk, use arms for locomotion, often scavengers or detritivores.
- Echinoidea (Sea Urchins and Sand Dollars): Lack arms but have a rigid test (skeleton) and spines, mostly herbivorous grazers.
- Holothuroidea (Sea Cucumbers): Soft-bodied, elongated, with tentacles around the mouth, deposit feeders or filter feeders.
- Crinoidea (Sea Lilies and Feather Stars): Many are sessile or attached to the substrate, use feathery arms for filter feeding.
